Employer benchmark

Stakeholder question

How can employers attract and retain Gen Z by aligning manager experience, mission, flexibility, growth and compensation with what young talent actually values?

The problem we set out to explore

Gen Z is entering the Indian workforce with a different set of priorities — and employers are still learning how to read them correctly. That mismatch can show up as early attrition, disengagement and frustration on both sides.

OBJECTIVE

Quantify what Gen Z expects around managers, mission, salary, learning and flexibility — then compare those expectations with real employer experience.

SCOPE

Gen Z students, fresh graduates, job seekers and early-career professionals in the Indian job market, across corporate, start-up, hybrid and flexible workplaces.

WHY IT MATTERS

Unmet expectations can raise early-career attrition and hiring replacement costs. Employers risk losing fresh talent when growth, support or flexibility are unclear. The same conflict is often described from opposite ends: flexibility vs. discipline, transparency vs. structure.

Executive summary

Three findings should shape Gen Z recruitment and retention decisions.

Methodology used

A simple workflow: clean the data, preserve unique respondents, build focused dashboards, then validate employer gaps with employee reviews.

Finding 1 — Manager aspirations

Gen Z does not reject long-term employment; they make tenure conditional on the quality of the workplace and manager experience.

Employer takeaway

79% prefer a flexible model (Remote + Hybrid + Flexi). Pair that flexibility with supportive, goal-oriented managers to strengthen retention.

Finding 2 — Mission aspirations

Purpose is a real employer-selection filter for Gen Z, not simply a branding message.

Employer lens — Flipkart

Cross-platform employee reviews are broadly positive, but the same friction points appear repeatedly: growth, manager consistency, compensation and workload pressure.

Indeed • 1,162 reviews

3.9 / 5

Glassdoor • 6,604 reviews

What employees are actually saying

Representative reviews show that Flipkart can be a strong learning environment — but the experience is highly team- and manager-dependent.

INDEED • APR 2026 — PART-TIME, MAHARASHTRA

“Good learning experience with supportive team.”

Signal: learning, guidance and culture are clear strengths in parts of the organization.

GLASSDOOR • AUG 2026 — BUSINESS ANALYST

“Great work culture and work life balance.”
“During sale events, workload hikes significantly.”

Signal: culture is positive, but peak-period pressure can reduce the day-to-day experience.

TEAMBLIND • FEB 2026 — SOFTWARE DEVELOPER II

“learning is great, curve is steep, good techstacks and learning”

Signal: early-career learning is attractive, especially in engineering roles.

TEAMBLIND + AMBITIONBOX — GROWTH / PAY THEMES

Recent Blind reviews repeatedly mention slow promotions, low compensation and office politics. AmbitionBox review themes also flag salary-hike and performance-rating dissatisfaction.

Signal: growth fairness and reward transparency are the most consistent risks.

Where the reviews say Flipkart falls short

Employee reviews consistently highlight concerns around compensation, promotion transparency, manager quality, and career progression.

Pattern match: the biggest review risks — weak manager consistency, unclear growth, pay concerns and workplace pressure — directly overlap with the expectations our Gen Z survey says influence attraction and retention.

Gen Z expectation vs. Flipkart employee experience

The strongest alignment is around learning and culture. The highest-priority gaps are manager consistency, promotion fairness and compensation.

Area	Gen Z expectation	Flipkart review signal	Priority
Learning & ownership	Learn, grow, build skills	Indeed highlights learning; Blind reviews praise steep learning and ownership	STRONG FIT
Culture & inclusion	Supportive, safe workplace	Indeed culture 3.9/5; Glassdoor D&I 3.9/5	STRONG FIT
Flexibility / WLB	79% prefer flexible work	Indeed WLB 3.9/5; Glassdoor 3.5/5; reviews say team / sales-cycle dependent	WATCH
Manager support	57% prefer goals + support	Glassdoor senior management 3.4/5; Blind reviews show manager-dependent experiences	HIGH GAP
Career growth	Retention depends on company	Indeed advancement 3.6/5; Blind cites slow promotions / politics	HIGH GAP
Compensation	Salary expectations rise fast	Indeed pay 3.7/5; Glassdoor compensation 3.6/5; Blind cites low comp	HIGH GAP
Mission / purpose	72–76% mission-sensitive	Review evidence is less explicit — an opportunity to connect Flipkart’s work to visible impact	OPPORTUNITY

Recommendations for Flipkart

Protect the strengths employees already value, while fixing the management and growth gaps that can drive Gen Z attrition.

Transparent Growth ACTION Publish role ladders, promotion criteria, calibration logic and typical timelines. Add quarterly internal-mobility conversations. MEASURE Promotion fairness • internal moves	Manager Excellence ACTION Train people managers on goal clarity, coaching, feedback and psychological safety. Add 360° manager feedback. 90-day action plan for Flipkart

Use a focused early-career pilot to turn external review signals into measurable internal improvements.

0–30 DAYS

Diagnose + baseline

Run Gen Z / early-career pulse
Identify teams with weak manager / growth scores
Benchmark pay for priority roles
Map promotion + learning journeys

31–60 DAYS

Pilot + communicate

Manager coaching sprint
Launch career-ladder transparency pilot
Start mentorship / rotation cohort
Set peak-period workload guardrails

61–90 DAYS

Measure + scale

Compare pilot vs. baseline
Review attrition + mobility signals
Publish wins and unresolved gaps
Scale proven practices to more teams

KPIs to track

0–6 month attrition • Manager favorability • Internal mobility • Promotion clarity • Learning participation • Offer acceptance

Project outcomes & stakeholder value

The project moves from “what Gen Z says” to “where Flipkart can act.”

What was delivered

- Cleaned career-aspiration analysis
- 2 functional Power BI focus dashboards
- KPI + comparison visuals + slicers
- Flipkart cross-platform review benchmark
- Gap map + recommendations

Value to Recruitment

A sharper EVP built around real strengths — learning, culture and ownership — while setting more credible expectations around growth, pay and team experience.

Value to HR / Business

A prioritized view of promotion fairness, manager quality, compensation and workload risks, with interventions that can be tested against retention KPIs.

Recommended stakeholder decision

Run a 90-day early-career pilot focused on transparent growth, manager quality and protected learning — then scale only the actions that improve employee experience and retention.

Protect the strengths. Fix the friction. Make the employer promise believable.

Sources & notes

Employee-review platforms provide directional evidence, not a representative employee census. Internal HR data should validate these themes before policy changes.

The gap is real — but it's closeable.

Gen Z's expectations are specific, consistent and measurable — and so are the fixes. The next step is turning these recommendations into a focused 90-day employer action plan led by Recruitment and HR.
